$595 PER ATTENDEE

ISSUES THE SEMINAR WILL EXPLORE

During this 2 ½-day workshop at the Omni William Penn Hotel, 530 William Penn Place in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, participants will learn about best practices to improve the efficiency and cost-effectiveness of jury operations, to ensure the integrity of the jury selection process, and to treat jurors with dignity and respect.

Paula Hannaford-Agor, Director of the NCSC Center for Jury Studies, teaches court managers and jury managers to:

- Identify strengths and weaknesses in jury operations;
- Estimate the operational and fiscal impact of jury system improvements performance;
- Implement policies and procedures to prevent or respond to legal challenges to the jury system; and
- Use tools, performance measures, and best practices to address problems.

FAIR AND EFFECTIVE PRACTICES IN JURY SYSTEM MANAGEMENT

In many courts, jury operations are essential, but relatively minor, trial support units that often run beneath the radar of busy court administrators. What many administrators fail to realize is that poor performance in jury operations can cost the courts tens of thousands of dollars each year in unnecessary expenses while simultaneously undermining the ability of the court to guarantee a jury pool that reflects a fair cross section of the community. Citizens who experience poor operational performance while serving as jurors also take home negative impressions of the court, undermining public trust and confidence in the justice system.
